Using a consistent colour throughout a property adds a greater feeling of space and creates seamless continuity.

Loraine Chassell, XS Interiors/VX Showhouse Furniture

When colour, like texture and prints is an asset that found more in keeping with a palette that is neutral, but in the context of what they are displaying, it's a way that can underline space volumes of lines. Following strictly to the same colour may accentuate where you want to break the palette like a chair on the table.

All interiors of furniture provided all the furniture and accessories for the beautiful duplex show apartment in Stone Marston in Glasgow. We'll find and spend it to perfection being a consistent colour throughout the property adds a greater feeling of space and creates seamless continuity. contacted Loraine Chassell of XS Interiors. The property had such beautiful features we did not want the furniture or the colour scheme to compete the rooms and we wanted to create a feeling of simple sophistication. With the space to furnish-Loraine focused on using differing tones on a frame, a variety of texture and forms, and used open legs created a airy calm and relaxed environment. The use of neutral allows for future changes to be made very easily in a home by simply changing the accent colour. Redesign or reuse could just as easily have used here in place of red.
