

Selling your house is down to a fine art

Once the furniture has earned its keep

Tasteful furnished houses sell much faster. This is one of the best ideas I have seen in a long time.

Matt Eckford

Last year alone we helped sell more than £25m of properties through our 'style to sell' service.

Your home can be furnished to showhouse standard to help make it sell, writes Andrew MacKay

PROPERTIES involving looking to purchase are sold more quickly than those involving selling your own property. But it's not always easy to get an estate agent to furnish your house. There may be a reason that is unrelated to the furniture market. Perhaps they have had too many recent listings, or perhaps they are not quite confident because of the agents that have been used in the past. Or it may be that the agent is not quite confident because of the agents that have been used in the past. Or it may be that the agent is not quite confident because of the agents that have been used in the past.

There are two reasons why you should consider this. First, it is something that I have seen time and time again. Second, it is something that I have seen time and time again. Second, it is something that I have seen time and time again. Second, it is something that I have seen time and time again.

What if you want to sell your house in the next few weeks? The answer is to furnish it. The furniture you use to furnish your house will earn its keep. It will earn its keep by helping you sell your house. It will earn its keep by helping you sell your house. It will earn its keep by helping you sell your house.
